

Hi everybody! It's been a, er, while since the last news update (again!), but there have been some updates the past few months. Check inside for the list of updates!

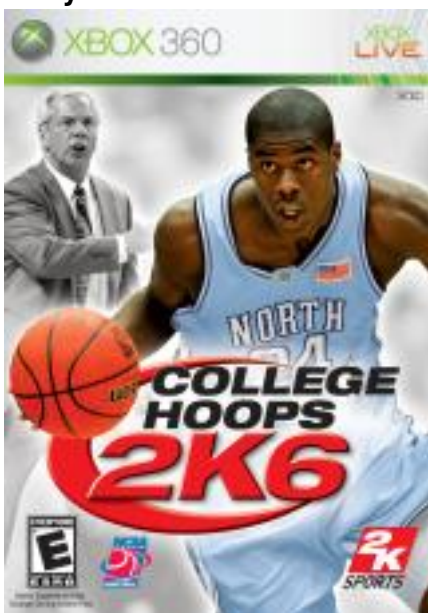

First of all, let me just assure you that Achievement Unlocked is in no way a dead project! I am still considering new things to add, and additionally new games. I still have a few more games lying around that I need to play, and write guides to. I'm currently having little time to actually play these games, as I have school and work besides this site, but hopefully I will have the time to start playing Xbox again. :-)

There is also a section for Arcade games in the works, it just needs a little more content before it gets published. :-)

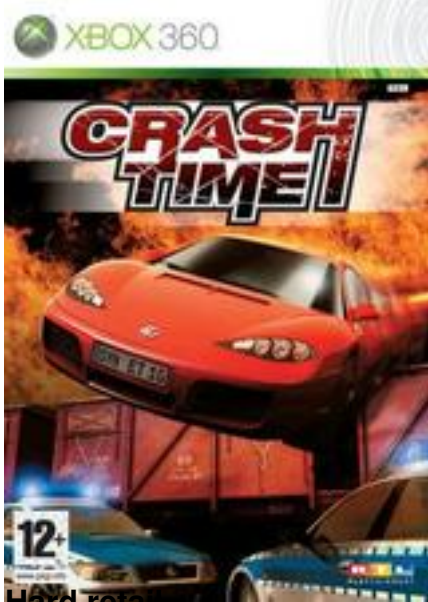

Onto the list of updates!
